Congregation of St. John's Much Interested in the Proposition.

Interested in the Proposition.

Considerable interest is felt in a proposition new being made looking to an addition to the historic old St. John's Church of Richmond.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon the Council Committee on St. John's Burying Ground will meet at the church and will probably at that time receive from the vestry the suggestion with reference to the proposed change. A resolution recently adopted by the vestry declares for the addition, and the matter now goes to the congregation for a final decision. The Council Committee is a formal affair, which will probably not greatly affect the situation one way of the other.

The church is now in the shape of a "T," and under the proposed changes it would be made cruciform. The thought of disturbing the present appearance of the historic old place where Patrick Henry sounded the first clarion call for American liberty has aroused opposition among many in the congregation. Many others however, wish to see the change made. More room is needed and is absolutely necessary if the church would accept and install a handsome new organ that has been presented to it. Install a handsome new organ that has Install a handsome new organ that has been presented to it.

The change, it is claimed, would give this space, and would be an addition that would not affect the remainder of the structure. The wing would have to extend over some of the tombs, but would be clevated sufficiently to prevent obscuring them. It would serve to protect them from the weather.

Mayor McLane's Appreciative Letter to The Times-Dispatch.

The Times-Dispatch is in receipt of a very appreciative letter from Mayor Mc-Lane, of Baltimore, acknowledging an lane, of Hallmore, acknowledging an offer of this paper to raise a fund for the sufferers from the great fire in the Monumental City.

When the news of the dreadful fire reached Richmond, the sympathies of the people were aroused. Especially was this true of Confederates who recalled how people the people of Hallmore had stood bly the people of Battimore had stood the South and her cause. They were anxious to show, in a practical way, their sympathy for stricken Eatlimore. It was at their instance that The Times-Dis-patch offered to receive subscriptions. The letter of Mayor McLane, sent through Mr. Frederick M. Colston, is as follows.

pared for the charge of the children. Let all come and bring their coupons, and thus aid in the commendable work of beautifying the homes of Richmond. Every child will be abundantly rewarded by the enjoyment of the beauty and fragrance of the blossoms that will follow his or her seed planting. Leaf and blossom, freshness and fragrance, will replace the bare ahd unsightly yards, and the odors of waste and garbage that too often strew them.

As a still further inducement to the children to grow flowers and beautify their homes, The Times-Dispatch has determined to offer the following prizes: For the prettlest yard as a result of the seed planting, a first prize of $19 in gold will be given. For the five yards considered as ranking next in their floral beauty, each owner will receive a prize of one dollar. Besides these sixteen prizes, a number of other prizes of books will be given away to those whose yards are deemed worthy of special commendation. The award of prizes will be made by a committee of expert judges in about sixty days, or as soon as the flowers have had time to reach their full blossom and follage.

Besides the directions on the packages, the advice of Mr. Mann, of Mann & Brown, florists, is valuable. He says that the natural soil of almost any Richmond yard is well adapted to growing the flowers, the seeds of which are given away. The ground should be well dug up or spaded, and then the soil raked or chopped with a small hoe so that all the clode will be broken up and the surface of the ground be fine and like loose carth. When the ground has thus been prepared, smooth it and sprinkle or sow the seeds, but do not cover them deeply. Just a thin sprinkling of earth over the meeting in this papel systerady. The Virginia commission to the World' Fair is at home again from St. Louis, where it spent about a week looking after the exhibits for the Old Dominion, arranging for the completion of Monticello, and attending to other matters of a similar character.

It seems to be the unanimous verdict of commissioners that the exposition will be a splendid success, particularly in the direction which largely controlled its being-advertisement. People of all nations are gathered within the 1,200 or more acres covered by the great fair which offers unexampled opportunities for displaying the wealth and advantages of the different localities represented. of the different localities represented.

From the farthest reaches of Asia and the savage nakedness of the Philippines to the crowning civilization of Great Britain, America and France, there may be seen here some representative displays, the intermediate steps forming a valuable and unparalleled study to a man valuable and unparalleled study to a man inclined in that direction.

By the first or the middle of June the exposition will be complete, and when once it is finished its commanding magnificence will have to be admitted by all. It will be the greatest show the world has ever seen, and the sight will be well worth the trip to the West. The Immensity of the thing, the wonderful scope of it, is something almost oppressive. The buildings are beautiful and elegant.

At night the exposition is a wonderful scene in its gleaming whiteness that may be seen glowing for miles away. At the present time the roads are bad and the clang of the hammer is still heard among the unfinished buildings. The Virginia commissioners enjoyed exceptionally fine weather, though they were much fatigued with the dust and the heat. Fortunately there was no rain, which causes mire that has to be measured by feet.

Commissioner Kolner, the president of the commission, is well pleased with the outlook. He says, as has been said before in this article, that the State will be surpassed by only three or four States that have spent $20,000 or more on their exhibits. The display, says the commissioner, is ahead of those from States which appropriated two and three times the amount allowed by the Virginia Legislature. Mr. Kolner has just returned from St. Louis. Along with him were the other two commissioners, Mr. J. L. Patton, of Newport News, and Colonel A. M. Bowman, of Salem, Va., and Captain W. W. Baker, of Chesterfield county, an assistant commissioner.

"MONTICELLO."

Monticello, the Virginia building, is not yet complete, but will be within a week. The place will be a mecca for Virginians during the Pair. It will offer a haven of rest and quiet that will be appreciated by those who stay to see the exposition.

Virginia Day will be on September 23d. and this occasion will probably see a great gathering of Virginians in St. Louis. The Governor will be there, and many others. There should be some dedicatory exercises and considerable entertainment of the kind that is becoming the fashion with the other States and countries. This cannot be done, however, without money, and of money there is none left. A considerable amount should be raised by popular subscription, if necessary.

Appeals Has Set Aside a Conference Day.

CASES ARGUED YESTERDAY

One of These Involves a Subscription of Stock to a Building Company.

The United States Circuit Court of Ap peals was engaged yesterday in hearing District Court of Maryland. The case is entitled Nancy A. Jameson, appellant, va. Steamtug "Irene," appellee. The case is being argued before Judges Goff, Brawlev and Purnell by Leroy S. Gore, of New York, for the appellant, and by Robert H. Smith, of Baltimore, for the appelles.

The case of the Interstate Building and Loan Association, appellant, vs. Edge field Hotel, appellee, is before Judges Morris, Brawley and Purnell, and comes to this court from the Circuit Court at Charleston, S. C. It is being argued by W. A. Wimbish, of Atlanta, for the appellant, and by N. G. Evans, of Edge field, S. C., and Robert C. Alston, of Atlanta, Ga., for the appellee. The Edgefield Hotel Company subscribed for and had issued to it 120 shares of instalment stock in the Building and Loan Association. The hotel company then applied for a loan of $5,000 on these then applied for a loan of $6,000 on these shares, and it was granted. The Hotel Company agreed to pay same in monthly instalments of $72. It now claims that the payments made would satisfy the indebtedness, upon the construction given by it to the £ per cent. clause in the bond; and pleads usury under the law of South Carolina, which it says should govern the contract on this point. If the Hotel Company were required to settle on the hasis known as the building and loan plan, the Hotel Company would owe $3.-77.49, plus attorney's fees, which plan 727.49, plus attorney's fees, which play the attorneys for the appellee contend
